

Christmas 2012

Jamie and Lynn Foster

May we share with you these highlights of our activities this past year?! Stay current at CompoundLiving.com. Email us at pbjrr@jf2.com or 1nana.foster@gmail.com. Or, there's this index page for photos from nearly all the activities mentioned here: <http://jf2.com/lynx/>

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

January 2012

Lynn and Jamie got a little getaway trip to Nojoqui Falls and Solvang. The whole gang went dining and dancing at Madonna Inn (a Robob and kids favorite). And Papa Bill was also here for a trip to Los Olivos. It's all about the cupcakes!...

February 2012

As you might imagine, there are a myriad of hiking paths around here, and we even walk one now and then. We hit the Bob Jones Trail this month with the kids! Of course, we also hit some wineries, enjoyed the kids' Yacht Races at Awana, and got some archery practice in down by where the goats used to be.

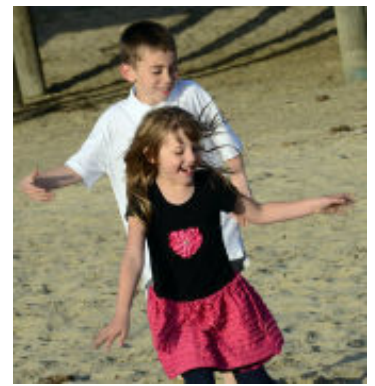

March 2012

The big kitchen remodel began this month. And we had the first of two litters of kittens. There was also this fishin' trip to Lopez Lake which included some fishin', some hikin', some snackin', and the like.

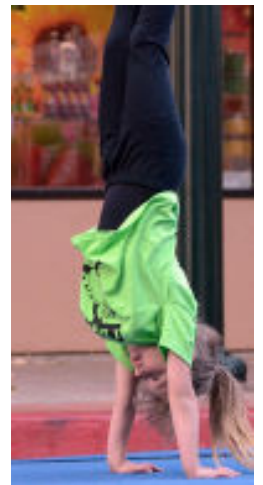

April 2012

Busy month: Easter eggs, a trip to the beach, the Nipomo Greenhouse tour, and a day of prayer at the future site of the kids' school. The biggy for Lynn and Jamie was a trip to San Francisco; we squeezed in so much stuff in the space of a weekend!

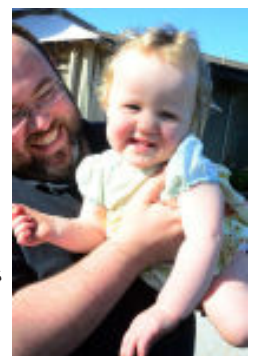

May 2012

May was even bigger... It started out with a gymnastics demonstration at SLO's Farmers Market. Then came an Alvin track meet, the Nipomo twins birthday party, and all kinds of kitchen remodel activities.

June 2012

We tested the new kitchen with Trevor's birthday. And then a few days later did Father's Day in Nipomo.

July 2012

There was this very festive Red (lobster), White (dinner plates), and Blue (blueberries, and M&Ms) 4th of July event. And another quick getaway - to Vegas!

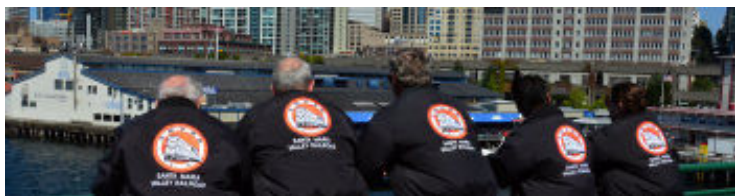

Alvin Tigers in Vegas.

August 2012

Serafina breaks into showbusiness as a fish in The Little Mermaid, Jr. And Jamie and his Dad take an SMVRR business excursion by private railcar to Seattle.

September 2012

We took the two great granddads out wine tasting (right along the railroad tracks, of course). And the whole family attended a Threshing Bee up north followed a few days later by Jen's birthday.

October 2012

We all love the Pumpkin patch! We all love Halloween. But wait, who's that in the background? And who are the extra babies?...

November 2012

Tracy and Matt adopt Asian twins! It's quite the story (see CompoundLiving.com) that's been developing since February when they were born. But only this month, after the adoption was finalized, could we begin telling the story openly. Names: David and Jonathan. Let's not forget Matteo's big birthday party at Bitter Creek Railroad. And, oh, Serafina is playing Tiny Tim at the Great American Melodrama!

Great Pumpkin Roll of 2012

December 2012

Papa Bill is coming out for Christmas to see Tiny Tim (at least that's a good excuse). The Kegusci clan is lighting the Advent candles at church today. Jamie had a great spaghetti and bonfire birthday dinner in Nipomo. Life is flying by as usual; photos when we think to grab the camera and get shots posted...